Constitution Committee Begins Work; Students Urged To Make Suggestions

A committee has been appointed and work has begun on a constitution for TJC. The committee, consisting of Bill Holland, chairman, Gene Carlton, Calvin Hamrick, Joyce House, Jerry Graham, and Milton Jones, met last week for the first time and discussed the document.

The Constitution committee will meet tomorrow at 10:20, stated Chairman Bill Holland.

It was decided, in order to give every student a voice in the drafting to place a suggestion box in the main office. It is there now and students are urged to make any suggestion they think fitting to be written into the constitution.

'Apache' Editor Gives Out Photos

Anyone who has not yet obtained his picture taken for the 'Apache' may do so from Bobo McLaughlin, editor, according to an announcement made by him Tuesday.

Three-fifths of the students had pictures made for the yearbook this year, Bobo stated.

Pictures will be made again at mid-term for those who enroll then and also for those who want to have them made again. Anyone may have his picture made again for an additional fee.

Those who did not pay for their picture at the time it was made may wait until the 'Apache' office is set up and then go by and pay a member of the staff.

Kamera Klub Elects Barnett President

The newly-elected Kamera Klub officers include E. L. Barnett, president; Gene Carlton, vice-president; Roy Durham, secretary.

The camera fans will be in charge of the dark room when it is complete. A picture of the week, selected by impartial judges, will be displayed in the trophy case. Any student who is interested in photography and would like to learn its finer points would be welcomed. Mr. Saunders is the sponsor.

A guest photographer will be the speaker for the next meeting, which will be announced.

TJC Features Freak Phenomenal; Peanuts Sprout In Plaster

By MARY LYNN BURCHFIELD

With the construction of the Junior College still in progress, no one is particularly surprised anymore when peculiar things start happening.

Everyone is familiar with Robert Ripley's column which is constantly reminding the public of freak phenomenals, such as broom straws piercing window pains without breaking the glass, and strawberries growing as large as apples. Well, here's another one; a TJC original.

The workmen were tempted to call Ripley as witness when they walked into one of the unfinished business section rooms about three weeks ago, and found the whole ceiling sprouting peanuts. They just didn't grow up there by themselves. There's an explanation.

It seems that while loading the acostical plaster which is being used in most rooms where lectures will be given, it was spilled and swept back into the sacks by workmen.

It became evident, after the plaster had been spread on a Friday, left over a weekend, and inspected the following Monday, that quiet a few little Spanish peanuts had been mixed with the plaster in the mad scramble at the warehouse. Lawn mowers, and machetes could well have been useful equipment that day.

This is a fete comparable to the Hanging Garden of Babylon, yet it is doubtful whether these gardens of Babylon contain anything so lowly as a mere peanut. At least we're original, a peanut gardren, if there's such an animal, and on the ceiling at that.

P. S. The peanuts have been removed and the ceiling replastered.

To The Faculty

In every school, regardless of size, there is unfortunately some cheating. This situation is, naturally, deplored by all honest students but will possibly remain until human nature changes. We have no solution for this problem except by individual control.

However, there is a cheating situation in TJC that can and should be stopped. The fact that many students have the exact test before going to a quiz is definitely an evidence of the teacher's carelessness and should be eliminated.

How these tests get into the hands of the students before exam time is not known. But if the teachers have any regard for the honest student who studies many hours before a test and is beaten by a cheater with the key, they should take special efforts to see that their tests remain in proper hands.

Christmas Holidays

Christmas holidays this year have been set from December 24 to January 1 and many of us have complained that the holiday is too short. All of us would like longer holidays and would readily agree to such a suggestion; it may be possible to stretch it a little so that we will leave school on Wednesday, December 24. However a time any longer than this is impracticable for a very good reason.

TJC is accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and the association states that we must hold classes thirty-six weeks each year. Since we started late, we will go an extra week as the schedule stands now. If the holidays were extended to, say two weeks, that would mean an additional extra period at the end of the year, which would be impossible due to the summer schools beginning here and at other colleges. In view of these facts, we have no choice but to take the holidays allotted us cheerfully, without blaming the administration. At a faculty meeting Monday a representative of the Student Council requested the extra two days and his suggestion was approved by the faculty. Now it will have to go to the Board for the final decision though it is improbable that they will not approve.

Two days aren't much time, but better than none; so let's make the best of it this year and enjoy what time off we have. It's only one year; only one Christmas. By next year the school should be straightened out enough to get back on an even keel.

Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving Day should affect Tyler Junior College in a very special way this year. Every year we read articles, stories, and editorials, which help us to realize the many things we have to be thankful for, but this editorial is to point out why students and faculty members of TJC should especially be thankful this year.

First of all, we have a new campus, which is still being completed. The five buildings, when finished, will be one of the most beautiful campuses found anywhere. TJC has almost all the modern inventions for a well-equipped school. We should show our thankfulness by asking good care of our fine buildings.

This year, TJC grew up. No longer are we sharing buildings with the high school. Yes, we are a full-fledged college now. Our chances for growth as college men and women are greater.

Our football team is one any school would be proud of. Even though we have lost one conference game and our chances for the conference crown are almost gone, we have a hard-fighting team which always plays a thrilling football game.

The Apache Belles are better than before and offer pleasing entertainment not only for the football games but also for the games during basketball season when we try to capture the championship.

All of these blessings, together with all our many other blessings—our homes, freedom, privilege of living in the United States, health, and the countless other thousands should make us humble and deeply thankful to the Supreme Being.

With reverence in our hearts on this Thanksgiving Day, let us as TJC students and faculty members say, "Thank you, God for Everything."

Student Union To Open Today

..Today (if everything goes as planned), the Student Union Building will be opened for the first time to students.

..Used as a storage room for desks, tables, and other school furniture, the room was impossible to clear before now.

..A project of the Apache Belles and Apache Guard, the room was cleared, cleaned, an painted by the two groups.

According to members of these groups, the room will have a dance floor, juke box, comfortable chairs, and in general, just be a place where the students can visit between classes.

Painted in brown and pale green colors, the room is enclosed by a temporary wall at one end. This wall partitions off part of the huge room which is still used for storage.

Girls Lounge Now Open To Nose-Powderers

Until recently TJC girls have had considerable trouble trying to get their noses powdered.

Due to the Hammering, painting, and other building activities, the lounge has been unavailable. Now it is completed, and the girls have a pleasant place to rest between classes, powder their noses, play records, and just talk.

Aside from the pale blue lounge the girls also have a separate powder room done in pink. The room has only one mirror, however, and it is in grave danger of being broken by the rush.

The lounge had what might be called its formal opening last Friday morning, when the Atta Kula Kula was hostess for a school party.

Let cold weather come—the heaters are in! Due to the extensive efforts of President H. E. Jenkins the heaters were installed last Saturday, a month earlier than had been thought possible.

The heaters are steam radiators of the most modern type and are powered by two giant boilers in the basement under the speech room. They will be painted to match the color schemes of the rooms.

Choir Gives First Concert This Year For Arp PTA

Performing for the first time this year, the college chorus gave a concert for the Arp PTA Tuesday night, October 26, in Arp.

Well received by the audience, the choir sang "Onward Christian Soldiers," "Prayer of a Norwegian Child," and "Golden Slippers."

All Tyler members of the chorus left Tyler by school bus for Van early Tuesday night while out-of-town members met the group there.

The chorus needs more men members and women altos stated Jean Lowe, accompanist for the group. Any person meeting these requirements is urged to contact Mr. Aubrey Oswald, choir director. Choral classes meet on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays at 1:05 o'clock (group one) and on Wednesdays and Fridays at 10:20 o'clock. (group two).

A DOOR CLOSES—

At last! We can now close the doors. For the last several weeks teachers have racked their brains trying to figure out ways to close the doors from the outside and prop them with a brick when they are inside. The problem has been solved very simply by putting door knobs on the doors.

A Day In The Life Of A Football Boy

By ROY DURHAM

"Early to bed, and early to rise" is the maxim that moves the Apaches Football squad around the clock. The hum of activity that is so significant of the Athletic Dorm begins just before breakfast and lasts until. Between classes THE topic of all talk is football, and to steer the conversation into other channels is a feat seldom accomplished. After chow or that English class these undernourished children can be seen on their way to the "shack" to rest before practice.

To the innocent bystander, the noise from the gym at 3:00 has all the earmarks of a mild tormada. On the field the boys lay aside all thoughts of study as carefully as they do their headgear, as calisthenics begin the afternoon of leisure. Then hundred yard dashes wind up the first few minutes of practice. The Apaches divide into two teams as Wagstaff calls for a practice game. One of the differences of the practice game occurs when Landers helps Page to his feet after knocking him flat and inquires about his health. Bahenson takes the ball, is pinned and drive nout of bounds because he hasn't realized that it is not impossible to run with Kennmar and Quilter attached to his legs.

The game is over andtheca

The game is over and the casualties have been carried off, the survivors stop by the water trough and then trudge back to the gym. The next destination is without doubt the dining hall then several adjourn to their Government book while others wander off downtown in herds to a movie. Thus goes a day in the lives of the 1948 Apache Football Team.
